DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thornton, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 22 and 23 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 22-24 of copending Application Number 10/799,835.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the difference between the claims of the present application and the claims of the copending application is that the claims of the copending application include many more elements and are thus more specific. Thus the invention of the claims of the copending application is in effect a "species" of the "generic" invention of the claims of the present application. It has been held that the generic invention is "anticipated" by the "species." See In re Goodman, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993). Since the claims of the present application are anticipated by the claims of the copending application, they are not patentably distinct from the claims of the copending application.

This is a provisional double patenting rejection since the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 4, 10-12, 24 and 26-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wright (US 6,206,828).

Wright discloses a device including: first and second distraction arms, 320 and 220; the first distracting arm 320 having a side wall through which an elongated slot 336 extends, the elongated slot surrounding an internal bore or “hollow bore” 340; a second distracting arm 220 in parallel relationship to the first distracting arm; an anchoring device 350 including a pin or connecting projection sized to slide within the internal hollow bore 340; a C-shaped opening and an adjustable seat; a milling or shaping device 380; a measurement instrument or ratchet mechanism; and a second anchoring device 250 movably engaged with the second distraction arm (Figs. 1-12, col. 3, lines 43-67, col. 4 and col. 5, lines 1-21).

It is also noted that the anchoring device has a pin or connection post or connecting projection that is slidable within the hollow bore 340. As illustrated in Figs. 11 and 12, the anchoring device has a through passage that is adapted or capable of receiving a vertebral fastener.

With regard to being “adapted for,” it has been held that the recitation that an element is adapted to perform a function is not a positive limitation but only requires the ability to so perform and does not constitute a limitation in any patentable sense. In re Hutchison, 69 USPQ 138.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 7-9 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wright (US 6,206,828) in view of Kim (US 2003/0055430).

Wright discloses the claimed invention except for having an alignment guide. Kim discloses a distractor device with an alignment guide. Kim discloses the alignment guide placed between the first and second anchoring device and teaches that this allows for proper alignment of the assembly on the spine (para [0057]).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided an alignment guide with the Wright device, as taught by Kim, for proper alignment of the assembly on the spine.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments have been fully considered but are not persuasive. Contrary to Applicant's arguments, features of the claimed invention have been clearly described in this office action.

Regarding the limitation, "hollow tubular shaft portion" Wright clearly discloses this feature as illustrated on the following page. It is noted that a hollow tubular shaft portion is any portion that resembles a hollow tubular shaft.

Regarding the double patenting rejections, the claims of the copending application are more specific than the claims of the instant application, since the pin is defined to be partially spherical. Although the copending application was filed on the same day, a terminal disclaimer must be filed to ensure common ownership of reissue patents etc.

Full faith and credit has been given to the search and action of the previous examiner in accordance with MPEP 704.01.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
